

BEATEN TO DEATH BY THUGS

GENTLEMAN BURGLAR DARINGLY HOLDS UP FAIR TICKET AGENT

Only Conversationalist Buys Cheap Cigar, Then Flashes Revolver and Cleans Out the Till.

One of the most cool and daring hold-ups occurred last night about 10 o'clock, when Mrs. Alice McLaren, the Key Route agent at the Piedmont station, was forced to give up the receipts of the day to an unmasked bandit, who was well attired and acted in a gentlemanly manner to a degree.

When seen this morning by a TRIBUNE reporter, Mrs. McLaren was somewhat excited after her experience of last night.

NOT FRIGHTENED.

"Yes," said Mrs. McLaren, "I was held-up and I was not a bit nervous or afraid, as the papers say. He was a nice looking young man and I had not the slightest idea he meant to rob me, so I was not in the least afraid."

"He asked me for a Cremo cigar, which I gave him, and he gave me a nickel. Then he said, 'Give me all the money in that cash register.'"

DRAWS GUN.

"I will not," I answered.

"I say you must, as I need it. It will be better for you to do so, then I will not molest you."

With that the bandit thrust the gun to the girl's head. Her courage failed her and she told him to take it himself.

He said, "No, you, give it to me." This Mrs. McLaren refused.

"The bandit then leaned over the counter and took the contents," said Mrs. McLaren. "All the time I had been hoping some one would come in, but no one came. The man left the station, coolly lifting his hat and said: 'SHAKES HANDS.'"

"Thanks, so much. I needed this money and will just borrow it a few days, when I will return it to you. Good night," and shaking hands with Mrs. McLaren departed across the street.

Mrs. McLaren immediately telephoned to the headquarters at the Emeryville pier and the Oakland police were promptly notified, but as yet no arrests have been made. Mrs. McLaren says that the man was young, neatly dressed and that he was smooth shaven.

"His actions were most refined and gentlemanly, so I did not have any reason to be nervous or afraid."

"All last winter I kept a gun under my counter, but I never expected to be held up this summer," said Mrs. McLaren.

The police think that the bandit got on a train and came to Oakland. Mrs. McLaren lives at 121 Monte Vista avenue, Oakland, and is a widow of uncertain age.

Coal Shortage Will Result From Suits

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo., July 5.—As a result of the suits filed by the government against the Union Pacific Coal Company, forcing that company to abandon coal property alleged to have been illegally secured from the government, three of the big coal mines situated on the disputed property have been closed down. The mines belong to the Superior Coal Company, which is owned by the Union Pacific. The effect will be a further shortage of coal in the West.

SMALL DECLARES STRIKE WILL BE ADJUSTED SOON

President of Telegraphers' Union Says Operators of All Classes Are Scarce Here.

WEST OAKLAND, July 5.—President Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, when seen at the headquarters in West Oakland this morning, said:

"The strike will be adjusted within two weeks, and the adjustment will be arranged in San Francisco. Brother Miller, assistant general superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, cannot express what he thinks entirely, but what somebody else is thinking, therefore he should not be taken too seriously when he says it is absolutely impossible to reinstate all of the telegraphers now on strike."

JUDGE DUNNE PUTS END TO LIBERTY OF SCHMITZ

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Judge Dunne this morning put a stop to the liberty allowed Mayor Schmitz when his attorney, Frank Drew, applied for the customary order permitting the convicted Mayor to leave the county jail to visit his attorneys and go to his home for luncheon.

TREADING TRAILS WHERE SHERMAN'S MEN MARCHED

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 6.—A second start was made yesterday by military men to traverse the route pursued by General W. T. Sherman when he created havoc and brought devastation through the heart of the South. Only a year ago Father Sherman, a Jewish priest and son of the general, escaped to follow the path of his father. He started from Fort Oglethorpe and rode as far as Cartersville. A forerunner was stirred up among the Southerners who remembered the reality of "Marching Through Georgia," a storm song and President Roosevelt, who heard of the determination as far

Woman Witness To Brutal Murder

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—George Maguire, a local reporter for Bradstreet's, who resides at 2920 Laguna street, was so badly beaten by a gang of unknown men this morning that he died at the Central Emergency Hospital at 6 o'clock.

The story gleaned by the police from a woman who saw the assault is to the effect that Maguire got off a Fillmore street car at Jackson street at 1:45 this morning and started up Jackson street toward Laguna street, when he was stopped by two men, one of whom asked him if he had "just got off that car."

He told them he had, whereupon one of the men struck him, and as he fell four or five other men appeared and all beat and kicked him and then ran away. Maguire was taken to the Central Emergency Hospital, where Dr. Magnus examined him and found that besides numerous cuts and contusions there was a fracture of the skull.

The identity of the men in the attacking party is not known, but the police believe they are sympathizers of the striking carmen.

Maguire died at the Receiving Hospital at 6 a. m. without regaining consciousness. His skull was fractured at the base.

He was 27 years of age and came here shortly before the earthquake with his parents from New Orleans, where his father, Patrick Maguire, was a wealthy contractor.

TINNER CAUGHT IN BLAZE WHILE ON TOP OF GAS TANK

Victim Is Frightfully Burned About Hands, Neck and Ears; Woolen Shirt Prevents Man's Death.

By the explosion of escaping gas from a tank of the Oakland Gas, Light and Heat Company at the foot of Market street this morning about 9 o'clock, John Murray, a tinner, twenty-seven years old, and living at 2272 Bryant street, San Francisco, was frightfully burned about the hands, neck and ears.

Murray was at work on top of the tank, some distance from the ground, when the blaze crawled up along the side of the tank and into the midst of the few workmen.

Other tinner were slightly burned, but not as serious as Murray. Had it not been for the heavy woolen shirt on the back of the tinner he would have been burned to such an extent that the best of care could not save his life.

Murray was taken to the Receiving Hospital in the gas company's wagon and Steward Harry Rorcher quickly applied treatments that eased the young man's misery. His hands and forearms were burned and his neck has burns of a severe nature, while the flames injured the ears still more severely.

The patient was removed to the Fabiola Hospital.

BAY GIVES UP NUDE BODY; HOLDS MYSTERY OF DEATH

(TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENCE.) SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Out of the waters of the bay comes another mystery. Buffeted about by the waves, the body of a man, thus far unidentified, was seen by Captain Olsen of the J. J. Stofen. The body was entirely nude and had been in the water but a few hours. It was taken to the morgue.

Richard Raenar, a watchman on the C. T. Hill, called at the morgue today and identified the body as that of a man whom he saw jump into the bay from the end of a wharf on the water front yesterday afternoon, after fully removing his clothes.

Investigation was made by the authorities and the clothing of the drowned man were found at the end of the wharf. About $24 in gold and silver was found in his pockets. There was nothing by which identification could be made.

The authorities are undecided over the motive for the man's plunge into the waters of the bay. Was it merely to take a swim, or was it to commit suicide?

FATALITIES ON FOURTH OVER COUNTRY ARE 248

CHICAGO, July 5.—A list of Fourth of July casualties, as gathered by correspondents all over the country, gives the following figures: Dead throughout country, 58; fatally injured, 102; probable deaths from lockjaw, 88; injured in Chicago (not fatal), 87; injured in other cities, 1647.

Classification of causes—By fireworks, 427; cannon, 44; firearms, 56; gunpowder, 58; toy pistols, 88; dynamite canes, 62; runaways, 16.

The list does not include the following, all attributable to the excitement of the day: Murders, 7; suicides, 14; drownings, 8.

For purposes of comparisons, the following are the deaths in previous years:

	Dead.	Injured.
1906	158	5908
1905	182	4994
1904	183	3986
1903	466	3983

The total fire loss attributable to fireworks was $304,000. Damage by fire was greatly reduced by the heavy rains, which were general over the Middle West the night before the Fourth.

There was not a single fatality in Oakland. Two were injured slightly and there were nine small fires.

HELL IS IN THE SUN, THIS PASTOR DECLARES

WASHINGTON, July 5.—"I am convinced that hell is in the sun, because it meets all the requirements laid down in the Bible," said the Rev. Zeb Hetzel Copp, assistant pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

"Read the twenty-second chapter of Revelations and you will see that in the last days those who have lived pure and upright lives will have no need of the light they now get from the sun and moon. The plain inference from the reading of that chapter is that the sun and moon will disappear. Why? Because another source of light will have then appeared, and it is inferable that God will have another use for the sun. Will it not then be devoted for the punishment of those for whom hell fire is reserved? It will be reserved for that very purpose."

MRS. GEO. WHITTELL JR. NOW FREED FROM HUSBAND

Former Florodora Girl Gets Final Decree of Divorce on Cruelty Grounds From Millionaire's Son.

Josephine Whittell, who was formerly pretty Josephine Cunningham, a Florodora girl, was granted a final decree of divorce this afternoon by Judge Ogden against George Whittell Jr. on the grounds of extreme cruelty.

The marriage of Miss Cunningham and young Whittell took place about three years ago, and created quite a sensation among the smart set. Whittell is the son of George Whittell Sr., who likewise is a son-in-law of the late Nicholas Luning, a multimillionaire.

The parents of young Whittell made strenuous objections at first to the secret marriage of their son to a chorus girl, but after they took up their residence at Alameda the parents gave them their blessing. It was not long, however, until the young bride charged her husband with treating her in a most inhuman manner.

When asked by the court whether the prosecution had anything to reply, Assistant District Attorney Robert Harrison answered, no. Roche was then ordered to stand. When the judge came to the word "San Quentin," the boy's mother emitted a wild shriek and had to be taken from the room by the bailiff. She was accompanied by four women friends, who made no outcry or other disturbance.

Roche's defense upon a case of mistaken identity. There were two men involved in the robbery and one escaped. Roche said that he had nothing to do with the affair, but ran because he thought one of the thugs was taking after him. Senk, however, identified him as one of his assailants.

WESTERN UNION HEARS
TELEGRAPHERS' APPEAL
Prospects of Settling Strike Soon Brightens When Labor Commissioner Neil Consults With Officials.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Prospects for a peaceful settlement of the commercial telegraphers' strike brightened today with the arrival of two members of the strike committee of the union and further conferences between the officials of the company and United States Labor Commissioner Neil.

Through the commissioner the telegraphers have been able to get their case before the officials of the Western Union, especially in reference to the discharge of Operator William May for alleged misuse of the company's wires. If the commissioner's investigation substantiates the charges that have been made against May by the officials of the Western Union, the union will probably let the matter drop.

ALLEGED BANDIT
GETS CLUBBING
Two Policemen Beat Drunken Man Nearly to Death in Saloon in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—John McBride, the alleged bandit who attempted to hold up the barkeeper in a saloon at 155 Eddy street, and who was almost beaten to death by the arresting officers before he could be forced to surrender, appeared in the Police Court this morning, his head swathed in bandages. The case was continued until next Monday morning to give the accused man an opportunity to secure counsel.

McBride was considerably under the influence of liquor when he entered the barroom and asked the barkeeper, Peter Treich, for a drink. The liquor was refused and he then demanded the money in the cash register, at the same time flourishing his revolver in the saloonman's face. Morris Leeger, a patron of the place, grappled with the footpad and was struggling for the possession of the revolver when Policemen Morrissey and O'Dowd got their clubs in action. McBride was out for so long that it was thought he had been killed. He regained consciousness, however, and was taken to the city prison.

Two alarms of fire were turned in during the noon hour. The first was at 12:04 from 1463 Grove street, the residence of Mrs. E. D. Goddard. The roof had become ignited by some left-over firecrackers which were thrown up to the house by some passing children. Little damage was done by the blaze.

The second alarm came in at 12:55. A fire broke out in the house occupied by W. M. Staller at 652 East Twelfth street was the cause of the trouble. A loss of $25 was sustained before the firemen extinguished the fire.

SOCIETY PET FIRE HEROINE

Natalie Schenck Collins of Newport Saves Valuables by Coolness.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 5.—With the coolness and the ability of a veteran fire chief, Mrs. Natalie Schenck Collins yesterday directed the fighting of a fire which started in the Cadwalader cottage on Bellevue avenue.

Unalarmed by the first cry of "Fire!" Mrs. Collins directed the removal of her jewels and other valuables to the lawn in front of the house, and when the fire was at its height ordered the firemen to cease playing water on the house while she oversaw the removal of a trunk that contained valuable furs.

Not once during the two hours that the fire was being combated did Mrs. Collins lose her courage or calmness. The blaze was discovered in the kitchen early in the afternoon. Mrs. Collins, her son, her mother, Mrs. Spotswood Schenck, the servants were within the house at the time. Mrs. Collins prepared to leave the house as though going for an afternoon walk. She led her mother downstairs and seeing that her son was safe on the lawn with his maid, ordered him to stay there and re-entered the house to assist in subduing the flames.

The dog was beaten off by white men and Lee Shin You was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where Dr. Koford dressed the wounds on her arms and legs.

FRANCOIS, July 5.—Fired with enthusiasm gathered along the route on the glorious Fourth, James H. Francisco, an engineer employed by the Southern Pacific company, started for the railroad yards at an early hour this morning, intent upon getting the scalp of John W. Mott, yard foreman, against whom he had long nursed a grievance.

Francisco, Mott, yard foreman, against whom he had long nursed a grievance, suffering from an ugly knife wound in the groin, was arraigned in the police court this morning and his case was continued to give his victim an opportunity to recover from his injuries.

According to the statement made by Mott at the city prison this morning, Francisco attacked him with a heavy fish plate while he was at work. Believing he was about to be lynched by the man who had often threatened to "skin him up," he whipped out a knife and slashed his assailant. The knife thrust took all the fight out of Francisco and he called the police. Officer Mahoney arrested the yardman and called the hospital ambulance in which Francisco was removed to the hospital.

HUNTERS MUST SHOW PAPER YOUTH DROWNS AT PIEDMONT FEAR TO ROUSE JAPAN'S ANGER

Metal Badge Supply Exhausted
as Result of Strikes Across Bay.

Owing to the strike among the metal workers of the various shops of San Francisco where aluminum badges are manufactured for hunters' licenses, all sportsmen obtaining the permits to hunt will be obliged to flash a little paper receipt on the officer or game warden who asks him for his license to hunt.

At noon today the last badge was passed over the counter at the County Clerk's office and within a few hours there were fifty applicants waiting for receipts. As quickly as the supply is replenished, the badges will be forwarded by mail to the waiting applicants.

Deputy County Clerk W. M. Brown, who has charge of hunting licenses, said the demand for the tags is far in excess of the supply. Only 600 badges were sent to Oakland for distribution.

EASTERN TEACHERS SLOW IN COMING

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—Dr. N. C. Schaeffer, president of the National Educational Association, arrived in Los Angeles last evening, preliminary to the national convention of the association which convenes next Monday. Dr. Schaeffer is State Superintendent of Public Instruction in Pennsylvania, having held that office by gubernatorial appointment for four terms. The president denied that he would be a candidate to succeed himself, but stated on the contrary that his position had not been altogether a "bed of roses" and that he willingly would retire.

MATTERS COMING UP.
President Schaeffer considered the most important matter coming before the meeting next week was consideration and probable acceptance of the new charter granted the association by act of Congress, which will be taken up Wednesday, July 10th.

Arrival of members of the association has so far been somewhat short of expectations. It is estimated that about $2500 visitors have arrived during the week, a considerable proportion of which are teachers. Many special trains bearing large delegations will arrive tomorrow and Sunday.

BURGLARY CHARGE REDUCED.
A charge of petty larceny has been substituted for that of burglary against Lawrence Baschke, a former car repairer in the Southern Pacific yards. Baschke was discovered by Railroad Officer Butler in a box car loaded with blackberries. The accused man, according to Butler, had a box under his arm and the officer arrested him as a burglar. He pleaded not guilty to the larceny charge and will be tried July 9.

Swimming Instructor Finds Body
Thirty Minutes After the Fatality Happened.

R. Mitchell, 17 years of age, of 921 Dolores street, San Francisco, was drowned at the Piedmont baths on Oakland avenue, shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. For nearly half an hour the body lay motionless at the bottom of the swimming tank while his companion, John Sasa, swam and frolicked with the crowd of bathers at the resort.

No one was aware of the boy's disappearance until his lifeless form was discovered by Swimming Instructor Al. Rogers. The drowning occurred after he had been snatched from the tank by a crowd of bathers. He made any struggle before death came to him it attracted no attention among the crowd of pleasure-seekers around him.

ON PLEASURE TRIP.
Young Mitchell, who was a student, left San Francisco yesterday morning in company with his friend, Sasa, to pass the fourth of July in Oakland. After seeing the sights and mingling with the crowd on the down-town streets through the hot morning, the two boys decided to go out to the baths. Both were in high spirits, and after they entered the swimming pool they engaged in various water games together. Finally the number of bathers increased and Mitchell, who did not notice his young friend's disappearance until the fatality was discovered, Dr. Carl E. Curdie was hastily summoned and gave it as his opinion that Mitchell had been dead about half an hour when he was found. He was a good swimmer and must have died instantly. His body was taken to the Oakland mortuary and it will be removed to his home in San Francisco today.

Young Mitchell was the son of John Mitchell, a carpenter.

LANDLORD ASSAULTED WITH GLASS PITCHER

Charged with striking their landlord, Frank Verbe, over the head with a glass pitcher and lacerating his scalp severely, when he requested them to pay their rent, John Nicholson and Henry Bodie, of 179 Third street, were arrested this morning for a payment on his July account. The men for assault with a deadly weapon.

Last evening Verbe, who conducts a lodging house at the address given, went into Nicholson's room and asked for a payment on his July account. This, according to Verbe, seemed to incense the lodger greatly, and his indignation was shared by Bodie, who occupies the same apartment. With out stopping to express their displeasure in words, Verbe declares that the pair set upon him, and in the course of the melee cracked a glass water pitcher over his cranium.

Verbe's head was cut in several places. His assailants will be heard in the police court tomorrow.

Fleet of Battleships to Avoid Oriental Waters on Way to Pacific.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Details of the vast movement of the war fleet to Pacific waters have been theoretically worked out weeks in advance by the naval general board. But these details are necessarily subject to constant change, resulting from the withdrawal of battleships from active commission on account of having been declared antiquated or in need of repairs and the substitution of other ships just going into commission and fresh from the builders' hands.

There is in the Navy Department today scarcely any one authorized to afford any information as to the contemplated fleet movement. Secretary of the Navy is at Watch Hill, R. I. Admiral Brownson, chief of the navigation, who is next in line, has gone to New York, and the acting Secretary of the Navy is Rear Admiral Mason, chief of the Bureau of Ordnance.

THROUGH STRAITS.
The opinion of the officers on duty today is that the route most feasible for the big ships is by the Straits of Magellan.

The route across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean and Suez canal is open to the objection that it would bring the big ships almost into Japanese waters, and the movement might consequently be regarded as menacing, which Secretary Metcalf has stated was never contemplated. The Suez route, too, is longer by a thousand miles than the Magellan route. This, according to the best calculations and allowing for short visits to ports on the nearest sailing route, is about 15,000 miles in length.

DISABLED VESSEL PROCEEDS ON VOYAGE

SEATTLE, July 5.—The steamship reported yesterday from Carmanah Point as disabled has turned out to be the Standard Oil Company's Assunition, which sailed Wednesday from Port Harford for San Francisco. She is reported this morning as having continued her journey south under her own steam. The fault is said to have been a slight defect in her boilers.

CHARGED WITH THEFT.

Roger Berner, alias Harry Leeds, was arraigned before Police Judge Samuels this morning on a charge of stealing a suit of clothes, valued at $35.00, from John Marovich, a second-hand clothes dealer of 649 Fifth street. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for Monday.

WOMAN PLEADS FOR THE RELEASE OF HER SPOUSE

Wife Sends Note to Judge, Telling Latter
She Cannot Support Her Children Alone.

Mrs. Della Riley of 151 Pacific street, who caused the arrest of her husband, Dan Riley, for giving her a beating every time she asked him to help support his six small children, sent a pathetic note to Judge Mortimer Smith this morning, asking that the charge against Riley be dismissed. She said that the whole burden of providing for her large family was proving too much for her, and she hoped that if her husband were given one more chance, he might do something to aid in paying the living bills.

As Riley had pleaded guilty to the charge of battery when he was arraigned, Judge Smith said that he could not grant the request.

WARNS RILEY.
"Stand up, Riley," said the judge, when his case was called.

"Your wife has asked me to dismiss the charge against you in order to give you a chance to help support your little children. I cannot do this and I have decided not to discharge you. But I will continue the charge against you for one month, and will allow you to go to your home for that time. Remember, however, that you are at all times liable to punishment under this same charge. If your wife makes any further complaint of your conduct before I formally discharge you from custody, I will send you to jail for six months. Now I advise you to go to work and make some money for your children.

Mrs. Riley says that her husband has been accustomed to pass all of his time in idleness and most of it in drunkenness. The money which he used for liquor, she declares, he took from her small earnings. When she applied to Bond and Warrant Clerk Smith for the warrant for her husband's arrest she begged him to tell the police not to let her children see their father placed under arrest. She feared the influence such a sight might have on their minds. "Do not send the officer to our home," she pleaded. "Send him to the jail on the corner. He'll be sure to find me there."

BUNCH OF BANANAS GROWN IN OAKLAND

In one of the windows of the Chamber of Commerce is a large bunch of bananas raised by Dr. Bernard Shattuck, 1081 Seventh avenue, East Oakland. It has fourteen hands, or layers, of well-formed bananas and is attracting a great deal of attention.

WOMAN SEEKS DIVORCE.

Genoveva G. Jackson, nee Barrett, of Alameda, brought suit for divorce this morning against Augustus H. Jackson on the grounds of desertion and failure to provide. The couple were married in Alameda on June 10, 1905, and according to Mrs. Jackson's allegations her spouse left her two months later. She asks to have her maiden name of Barrett restored. In asking that her husband is earning a salary of $150 a month.

IN VIRGIN WHITE.

The Heald-Dixon Business College float followed. It bore another bevy of young girls hurried to spots of white and sitting on the steps of a pyramid-shaped structure, at whose pinnacle sat Miss Maude Davis of No. 7 Eighth street. She carried an American silk flag, which was the only bit of artificial color on the entire float. Ruby cheeks, bright eyes, gleaming pearly teeth there were, and these, with the marked simplicity of the girls' dresses, formed a picture that was classical. The float was propelled by four horses, alleged to be white by their owner, but a hint of salmonine would not have injured their whiteness. However all eyes were directed toward the beautiful girls on the float. They included besides Miss Davis, whose fair face glowed beneath a wreath of flowers and greenery, Misses C. G. del Palacio, Emma Nilsson, Lillian Ceremilla, Helen Ceremilla, Claire Whitney, Alma Maass, Lulu Crockard, Bertha Hontigberg, Emily Grosscup, Marie Swift, Dot Tymeson, Naomi Appaling, Dot Dresser, Hazel Smith, E. POOR, UNTUTORED LO.

Tribes of the Independent Order of Red Men were to have followed the Heald-Dixon float, but owing to being behind in reaching the Eleventh street, the parades were placed in line between the Chinese and Japanese sections of the parade.

THESE PARTICIPATED IN MAKING THE CELEBRATION A GREAT SUCCESS

An Admirably Managed Celebration

The Independence Day celebration yesterday eclipsed all previous efforts in that direction, so far as Oakland is concerned. More admirably planned and better carried out arrangements can hardly be conceived. In whole and in detail the celebration was an unqualified success, and was so voted unanimously. The credit for organizing and carrying out the splendid fete belongs to the Merchants Exchange. But the well-directed efforts of that public-spirited body would have fallen short of the gratifying result if the business men and citizens generally had not co-operated cordially and liberally.

For a number of years Oakland has celebrated the national anniversary with patriotic enthusiasm and creditable displays, the celebration each successive year showing visible improvement over that of the previous Fourth. But yesterday the city fairly outdid itself. A series of entertainments lasting from the forenoon till far into the night diverted an immense concourse. The throng on the streets surpassed all previous crowds. Great numbers came from San Francisco and the other cities and towns around the bay. Admirable order was preserved, and only a few minor casualties marred the occasion.

Notwithstanding the vast quantities of fireworks exploded, there was little damage from fire. There was hardly any drinking to excess, and no disorder whatever. The police and fire departments deserve special credit for their vigilance and clever management. They gave the crowds every opportunity to enjoy themselves, but so managed things that legitimate gaiety and youthful effervescence were never permitted to degenerate into license and rowdiness.

Oakland certainly has a right to be proud of her celebration, more particularly so as it was unaccompanied by any casualty or fire of consequence. Nor should this expression of congratulation be dismissed without complimentary mention of the good humor, good behavior and excellent self-control of the people generally.

Now that the festivities of the Glorious Fourth are over the public will find a melancholy interest in studying the casualty returns as they come in.

Ruef as a Reform Leader.

According to the San Francisco Chronicle, Abe Ruef is doing reform politics with his old push. He is sending for the captains of his cohorts and urging them to enlist under the reform banner, and assist in organizing the forces of clean government. He can point to Gallagher and his fellow-buddlers in the Board of Supervisors as examples of the wisdom of assisting in political reformation while keeping the change.

It appears that Ruef's custodians interpose no objection to his political activities. As long as he is shining on the right side, they see no good reason why he should not lead his still unrepentant followers into the reform fold. As the municipal election is only some four months in the future, he can perhaps be made useful as an evangel in the cause of civic righteousness, as it is understood by the "Big Stick" and Jim Gallagher.

Says the Chronicle: "Notwithstanding Ruef's jail is made a gilded cage, decorated with flowers, and a special cuisine has been provided to tickle the palate of the arch boodler, there is an irksomeness, at times, in the even slight restraint in which he is held. While his special guards act rather as maids of honor, vying with each other to administer to his every wish, at the taxpayers' expense, still there is a weariness in it all for the millionaire boodler.

"Ruef is undergoing a special treatment for his physical ailments, which he follows with the particularity of a hypochondriac, never omitting an item in the medical schedule for the day. But after his automobile rides and his paddling in the surf of the ocean beach with Elisor Biggy, there still remains much leisure for the pampered prisoner.

"To beguile the tedium of his surplus hours, Ruef has been sending for his henchmen at his political headquarters near Vallejo street. These visitors he has urged to organize clubs and go into the present municipal campaign, waving the emblem of reform aloft in the interest of a good municipal government."

This would be encouraging but for the fact that only the confessed boodlers are taking the reform program. Those who deny taking stuff and are outside the bull-ring of the graft prosecution will have none of it. Ruef in the dual role of reformer and informer is not attractive as a political leader to his old companions in arms, however much he has gained in the good opinion of Messrs. Spreckels, Phelan, Heney and Burns. Still St. Paul made a great apostle after he had seen the great light on the Damascus road, and Ruef may become, as Paul did, one of the pillars of the church and a faithful exponent of civic righteousness. Possibly both the spirit and the "Big Stick" are exhorting him to engage in the work of political regeneration.

If some of the Eastern editors who expatiate with so much ignorant wisdom and mendacious indignation on the bitter hostility displayed toward the Japanese and Chinese in California had witnessed the Fourth of July pageant last night their surprise would have been great. Great numbers of Chinese and Japanese participated in the parade and vied with Caucasians in testifying to their appreciation of what the occasion meant. Japanese and Chinese students, many of them born in this country, sang patriotic songs and cheered the starry flag. No section of the parade was more heartily cheered than the Oriental division, in which a natty Japanese military company conspicuously figured. A body of American-born Chinese, trim, bright, well dressed young chaps, carried a banner inscribed "Our Nation." Boston will hardly believe this.

PULLING DOWN THE WHOLE STATE.

James D. Phelan has returned from the East with pledges of several million dollars for rebuilding San Francisco. There is great rejoicing over the news in that city, as money for that or any other purpose has been very scarce of late. There is a string to the proposition that may prevent the money being available for a long time to come, as it is to be loaned only in the event that disturbances in the city cease. San Francisco citizens seem to rejoice in a few, as they have one on hand most of the time, but for the sake of the city's future they ought to get together and adjust their differences and settle down to business. If they were hurting only themselves it would not matter so much, as they got themselves into this difficulty and they could be left to extricate themselves in their own good time if it were not for the fact that they are pulling the rest of the State down with themselves.—Livermore Herald.

THE DAY AFTER.

What Mars Our Relations With Japan

Secretary Metcalf says there is no reason why the United States and Japan should not be on most cordial terms of friendship. He is right. But cordial friendship is not likely to be maintained if a diplomatic incident is made every time a street urchin throws a clod or a paper ball at a Japanese. Two great powers cannot continue on terms of amity if an international complication is to result every time a Japanese is insulted by a hoodlum or jostled in a crowd. Such things occur everywhere, and are trifling matters for the police to attend to.

Nobody of sense and decent breeding sympathizes with acts of rudeness or brutality toward Japanese, but the notion that every Japanese cook, office boy or flunky embodies the dignity of the Mikado and the might of his empire is absurd and irritating. The American people are not willing to regard the Japanese as entitled to any measure of respect and protection larger than is accorded to Americans and other nationalities.

The American who is insulted by a cabman in London or a gam in Paris never thinks of complaining to his government. He either refers the matter to the police or dismisses it as one of the inevitable incidents of life.

It is different with the Japanese, however. They regard every street altercation and personal encounter as a violation of treaty rights and a matter requiring the attention of the United States and Japanese governments. They take no account of the conditions of daily life nor the special circumstances of each case. Indeed, a good many of them insist upon being treated as a preferred class and held secure from the petty personal trials which must be borne with philosophy.

When the Japanese in America cease to be unduly sensitive and less burdened with an exaggerated conceit, they will encounter less antagonism and be able to draw the proper distinction between purely personal matters and occurrences affecting their treaty rights and the dignity of their government.

The "heir apparent" doctrine does not appear to be gaining ground in American politics. It is not conceded that a man who has made an able and popular President has the right to choose his successor.

COMMISSION SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT

San Antonio, Texas, July 1, 1907.
Editor TRIBUNE:—I believe this is a good time for the people of San Francisco to do away entirely with the Mayor's office, and elect a commission of three or five good men to manage the city like they are now doing in Texas. They have no aldermen, no councilmen, no supervisors, only one man elected at each session, and being chairman, and they run the city under their charge just like any other strictly business proposition. I think the ancient order of things is too cumbersome and gives too many men a chance to be dishonest. Galveston was the first to try the new plan, and so far, it is working like a charm. I see now Houston and Dallas are following suit, and San Antonio will in the near future. I am afraid when Roosevelt goes, we may have to try some such plan to run this great republic. Yours very truly, J. L. THOMPSON.

LOCKED AND BARRED LIFE FATE OF TURKISH WOMAN

Only One Day From Youth to Grave Does
She Walk Forth as Other Human Beings.

In the land of the Sultan many strange customs are to be found, but perhaps none so astonishing to American minds as the manner of celebrating the wedding day.

As is well known, Turkish women live in the greatest possible privacy. Their houses are guarded by stalwart men, lest any undesirable should possibly enter. In the long passages of the houses lurk servants or governesses, in whom the owner of the house is able to repose the strictest confidence. Everything is done to prevent one in the outside world from seeing or holding intercourse with the ladies of the household.

When paying a visit the Turkish woman is veiled from head to foot, the veil over her face being double, and often three-fold, lest inquisitive eyes should pierce it. She appears a mere silhouette, a black outline. She has "taken the tcharchaf."

It is at the age of 13 that she retires into this seclusion and takes the veil that hides her evermore from the outside world. She herself may see others afterwards. She may go out into the streets in a shuttered carriage, may even go on the water and travel, and so see the life of town and country, but she must remain hidden, a black specter among other black specters.

EMERGES ONE DAY.

But there is one day on which she emerges from that retirement. On her bridal day, when she is arrayed in the latest Parisian fashion, she goes from her father's house to meet her husband, without the tcharchaf, for once. In her hair she has twined long skeins of gold thread, orange blossoms are sewn on her dress, and a young wife chosen from among her friends large.

has laced the diamond tiara on her brow. This is called "crowning the bride with happiness," for the friend is chosen on account of her supposed happiness in her marriage.

The friend recites a short passage from the Koran, the Turkish Sacred Book, and, while expressing her wishes for the bride's happiness, crowns her with the tiara. Then down the long corridor the bride goes to bid farewell to her father.

As she passes on to her carriage servants hold up long strips of cloth so that casual passers-by may not see her. At the bridegroom's house servants again screen her while she passes into the hall, where he awaits her and conducts her to a dais, on which is placed the bridal throne. Here she sits ready to receive her friends and hear their congratulations, having seen her husband for the first time.

Then follows the strangest part of the proceeding. The doors of the house are thrown open. Any woman who wishes to may enter, and many avail themselves of the privilege. A curious procession passes before the bride. Turkish women of all classes, old and young, rich and poor, come in to look at the girl who, for the first and last time since her thirteenth year, is to be seen by strangers without the tcharchaf.

European ladies come also, eager to see the strange ceremonies of other countries. Musicians play national airs behind thick curtains till the time comes for the wedding supper, when her friends and relatives toast the bride and then depart, leaving her to don the tcharchaf again and to look out on the world through shuttered carriage or latticed windows, but never face to face with humanity at wife chosen from among her friends large.

The spacious new ballroom, recently completed, was opened last evening for the first time. It is a remarkably effective room and this evening carried a decoration of national flags. Several hundred enjoyed the dance, which will be the last of the season at the club.

ESKIMO BABES GROW TO LUSTY LADS ON BLUBBER Mothers Carry Naked Infants Inside Seal- skin Blouses Until Old Enough to Hustle for Themselves.

The arrival in the world of the youthful Eskimo is not greeted by the orthodox cradle and swaddling clothes, says the American Missionary. Practically till he can shift for himself he lives absolutely naked inside his mother's sealskin blouse, skin to skin keeping him warm.

This arrangement allows the mother to go about her work almost immediately, and she can also travel and hunt without a perambulator and without having to leave anyone at home to mind the baby. The mother's dress is almost exactly like the father's, except that it has a long sort of tail reaching nearly to the ground—embryo, no doubt, of the modern "train."

Spared the miseries of soap and water, and early weaned to the readily swallowed diet of blubber and raw seal meat, the infant rapidly develops that invaluable layer of subcutaneous fat which, while it enhances the "jolly" appearance of the lads and the shapeliness of the maidens, assists materially in economy in clothing.

Thus in their frigid clime, once in their skin tent, the whole family will divest themselves of every stitch of clothing, unembarrassed by the fact that so many families share the tent with them. Sociability is early developed when one's next door neighbor on each side is only separated by an imaginary line between the deerskin you sleep on and the one he uses. The winter deerskin serves as bed and bedding at night and as parlor furniture during the day. Community of goods is almost imperative under this arrangement. Thus when one kills a seal all are fed, and likewise when he doesn't all go hungry together.

LONELINESS

When Adam stood erect upon
This slightly oblate planet
He started out alone in life—
In loneliness began it.

When Noah grounded on the mount
And climbed down from the Ark
The only grandpa, he was then
A lonely patriarch.

When Crusoe landed on his isle
And looked back on the sea
And thought the islet all his own
A lonely tar was he.

When Roosevelt in that crowded hour
Arrived at the belief
That no one else was there to boss
He was a lonely chief.

But Adam, Noah and Crusoe too,
And Roosevelt, for all that;
Were hardly lonelier than this Year's lonely June straw hat.

THE ROXBURGHE-GOELET NURSERY NEEDS TENANT

American-Scotch Duchess May Be Succeeded by Another as Result of Coming Marriage.

LONDON, July 5.—The Duchess of Roxburghe, who was Miss Goelet, may be succeeded by another American Duchess if the Roxburghe-Goelet nursery remains vacant. The heir presumptive to the dukedom, Lord Alastair Innes-Ker, has followed his elder brother's example and is engaged to marry Miss Anna Breese, daughter of the late W. L. Breese, of New York. Miss Breese's mother is Mrs. H. V. Higgins, wife of a director of the Royal Opera.

Miss Breese's sister, Eloise, has already married into the British aristocracy. She is Lady Wiltoughby d'Eresby, and will one day be the Countess of Ancaster.

Lord Alastair, like his brother, the Duke, is a fine specimen of the young aristocrat. He is twenty-seven years old and holds a commission in the Royal Horse Guards, one of the gorgeous Household Cavalry regiments. He has already seen active service, as he was with the army in South Africa during the Boer war.

There was a gathering of the Roxburghe-Breese clan at the wedding of Miss Gladys Fellowes to Lord Guernsey.

The Duchess of Roxburghe was remarkable in Saxe blue taffetas. She came with her sisters-in-law, the Ladies Victoria Villiers and Lady Evelyn Innes-Ker, the latter one of the four charmingly dressed bridesmaids.

The other American Duchess, who wore an equally if not more beautiful dress, was her grace of Marlborough. Her dress of exquisite flame-colored chiffon was a mass of silken embroidery, and her black picture hat was fastened with ruby and diamond pins. Lady Blandford accompanied the Duchess of Marlborough.

THE FRIEND WHO OFFENDS

Forgiveness breeds sweetness in the heart, and lack of it colors every noble characteristic, for one cannot entertain bitterness and resentment without affecting one's entire life.

By haughtiness, isolation and tardy forgiveness some of life's sweetest pleasures are denied—those indescribable moments of reconciliation.

There are certain forms of wrong that can, however, never be fully atoned for, but Aristotle says that "friends whose friendship has been broken off should not entirely forget their former intercourse, and that just as we hold that we ought to serve friends before strangers, so also have former friends some claims upon us on the ground of past friendship, unless extraordinary depravity were the cause of our parting."

If we cannot, when necessary, sacrifice or even humiliate ourselves to forgive and regain love, it is difficult to see where possible affection ever existed. The renewal of a pleasant intercourse, prompted by a generous forgiveness, brings incalculable joy.

VAUDEVILLE STAR FEARS HER LOVER'S SLAYER

Actress of Seattle Applies to Police for Protection From Engineer Who

PORTLAND, Ore., July 5.—Fearing even afraid to venture from her home at 474 Washington street.

On a plea of self-defense, Judge Gordon of Seattle released Lipinski last Tuesday, where he was charged with the murder of E. C. Crueger, June 26. Between Lipinski and Crueger there had been intense rivalry over Miss Wells. Although Lipinski's advances were not cordially received by the young woman, he forced himself repeatedly on her and on several occasions, it is alleged, threatened her life if she would not accompany him. Mrs. Wells declares that her daughter is in deadly fear of Lipinski and asks the police to take him into custody.

THE POWDER PAPER

Members of the gentler sex used to carry small chamols-skin bags filled with talcum powder concealed about their persons in various mysterious places, says the New York Press. If a bag was not at hand the knotted corner of a handkerchief would do. The powder thus concealed, in conjunction with the moistened corner of a handkerchief, was used to make an impromptu toilet in cases where soap and water was not at the hand and to restore the ravages of wind and dust. This apparatus has now been condemned as crude and bunglesome.

The newest wrinkle is the "papier poudre," a French importation. It is a little square of thin paper, smooth on one side and slightly roughened on the other, which can be used equally as well as a sponge, powder puff or perfume bag. The slightly roughened side acts as a sort of sandpaper, cleaning the dust from the face, while at the same time the scented powder is rubbed on. The advantage of the papier poudre is in the fact that it can be concealed anywhere—in the palm of the glove, under the belt or folded in the handkerchief—and in the hands of a skillful manipulator can be used without attracting the slightest attention by means of clever combination with the handkerchief.

ARREST OF SWEETHEART ONLY WAY TO GET HER

Ruse Against Irate Would-Be Guardian
in Iowa Ends in Happy Justice Court Marriage.

DES MOINES, July 5.—Wilson Webster and Eva Spook, two East Side lovers, wanted to get married. Both were of marriageable age, but for a number of years Miss Spook has been housekeeper for Job Wells.

Job did not want to part with his housekeeper. He told Webster that he would be whipped if he attempted to carry off his sweetheart. Webster pleaded unavailingly.

Finally Webster decided the only way to get the girl away from Wells was to have her arrested and taken into court. So he swore out a warrant charging her with disturbing the peace.

Constable Vicker arrested her today, and took her before Justice Vanlew. Webster was there and said they wanted to be married. Wells had followed them to court, but was sent out on some excuse, and during his absence the knot was tied.

WEIGHT OF QUEENS

Some readers of this paper have from time to time made earnest inquiries as to the avoirdupois of Europe's Queens. If a vote were taken the pain for embonpoint would probably be given to Queen Amelia. But this idea is altogether wrong, for the Queen of Portugal must yield precedence in this respect to Queen Olga of Greece, whose 126th lb. surpasses the weight of Don Carlos' genial consort by no less than 4th. Next in order come the Queen of Sweden and Carmen Sylva, and it will probably be a surprise to learn that Queen Wilhelmina, for all her robustness, hardly turns the scale at 160. Queen Victoria Eugene has not fulfilled the expectations of her intimates, and shows no signs of taking after the full habit of her mother; while the slimmest and frailest of all is the Empress Aiti, who owns to a mere 121.

FIX WATER RATES FOR SAN LEANDRO

SAN LEANDRO, July 5.—At the adjourned meeting of the City Trustees on Monday night the water ordinance, fixing the rates to be charged for water in this city was passed without the reductions that had been contemplated.

It will be remembered that the passage of the ordinance, which came up a week ago last Monday was postponed ed at the request of the water company, which asked to be given a chance to explain why the rates should not be lowered. Representatives of the company met the trustees at an informal meeting on Wednesday evening of last week, and presented their arguments so strongly that the board decided to accede to their request and re-establish the existing rates.

HAVE LETTERS TO PROVE A GIGANTIC PLOT AGAINST THE MINERS

CITIZENS' ALLIANCE, DETECTIVES AND MILITIA IMPLICATED IN CONSPIRACY

Moyer to Be Among the Last Witnesses to Take the Stand in Haywood's Defense in Refutation of Murder Testimony Given by Orchard.

BOISE, Idaho, July 5.—The defense in the trial of William D. Haywood is nearing the end of its case. Moyer will go on the stand late this afternoon or tomorrow morning.

Six witnesses this morning closed up the loose ends in the net of contradiction in which it is hoped that Harry Orchard may be entangled. Written evidence was introduced to show that a conspiracy existed among the Mine Owners' Association, the Citizens' Alliance, the Governor and militia of Colorado and the Pinkerton detective agency, all seeking to destroy the Western Federation of Miners.

The mysterious registered letter sent from Denver to San Francisco and which Orchard swore contained five $20 bills, sent to him by George Pettibone, signing himself "Wolf," was explained by Jacob Wolff, who said he formerly worked for Pettibone. Wolff said he sent Orchard a registered letter. The Bradley depositions on the explosion at his residence in San Francisco will be read this afternoon.

BOISE, Idaho, July 5.—When the Haywood trial was resumed at 10 a. m. today there were few spectators in the big courtroom. This was due, in large degree, to the fact that Boise's Fourth of July celebration is still in progress and does not officially end until after the masquerade ball to-night.

The defense offered as the first witness of the day Marian W. Moore, of McAdams, Arizona, a member of the executive board of the Western Federation of Miners. As Mr. Moyer took the stand aorney Clarence Darrow announced that another member of the executive board, Frank Schmetzer, was killed in Denver night before last while boarding a train to come to Boise as a witness. Darrow said the defense might be compelled to ask for a day's delay a little later on as it would be necessary to secure from various other sources the testimony expected from Schmetzer.

MAILED IN ALASKA LETTER.
The witness, Moore, was asked as to the circumstances under which he signed a letter to Alaska for Harry Orchard and mail it from Nome to the second Mrs. Orchard in Colorado.

Moore said he first met Orchard in Denver in May, 1901.

"I was sitting on a bench in court-house square when he came up and introduced himself, saying he had seen me in the Coeur d'Alenes," said Moore. "I saw him several times after this, once on Seventeenth street in 1905. I told him at that time that I was going to Alaska to organize a union at Nome. Later in the evening Orchard came to my room and asked if I would mail a letter for him from Alaska. It was addressed to Mrs. Harry Orchard and he told me he wanted to get rid of that woman. He said he might come up to Alaska later on himself. I arrived in Nome August 12, 1905, and two days later I remembered and mailed the letter."

On cross-examination Moore said he did not inquire to whether the woman to whom the letter was addressed was Orchard's wife or not. Orchard referred to her as "that woman," and said he wanted to get rid of her. Moore said he had talked with Orchard but three or four times before the latter incident took place.

SPOUSE WAS "GUN MAN."
Following Moore on the stand came Mrs. Mike Fallo, of Butte, Mont. The witness was formerly the wife of Harry Waters, generally known as "Kid" Waters, a "gun man" who operated in the mining regions of Colorado. Asked what "Kid" Waters did, the witness replied:

"That's the last you saw of the letter?"
"Yes, sir."
"There was no cross-examination."
The defense claims Harry Orchard asked Pettibone to keep his union card, Masonic charm and some money for him when he started west in 1904 following the deportations from Cripple Creek.

TALKED TOO MUCH.
Archie Lester Harper, a young man just admitted to the bar in Denver, told of being arrested in Victor, Col., the day following the Independence depot explosion.

DENIES ORCHARD'S TALE.
Owen Barnes was the next witness. Barnes was implicated by Orchard in the manufacture of certain bombs. Barnes lost both of his feet while mining. He has been a member of the Western Federation of Miners for many years. In 1904 Barnes lived in a cabin near the Independence depot. Orchard only went there once.

"Did you have any conversation with him as to the manufacture of dynamite bombs?" asked Darrow.
"No, sir."

"Did you help or assist in any way in the manufacture of any bombs?"
"I did not."

"Did you ever make a bomb?"
"No, sir."

"Did you ever commit or plan to commit any act of violence with Harry Orchard?"
"In that district?" inquired the witness.

"Yes."
"No, sir."

"Did you ever enter into any agreement or did you ever plan to commit an act of violence anywhere?"
"No, sir."

Barnes said that the day of the Independence depot explosion, June 6, 1904, he was attending the Democratic national convention in St. Louis.

LIVED AT DEPOT.
On cross-examination Barnes was asked to draw a rough sketch of the Independence depot and the location of the place where he lived, where Orchard lived and where Bill Easterly, Steve Adams and Bill Alkman lived. All were within a short distance of the depot.

On re-direct examination Barnes said directly the Independence depot and the location of the place where he lived, where Orchard lived and where Bill Easterly, Steve Adams and Bill Alkman lived. All were within a short distance of the depot.

Wolff said he first went to work for Pettibone in 1895 and remained a year. He again entered Pettibone's employ in 1898 and remained in the store until the business was wound up, May 1, 1906, following Pettibone's arrest and incarceration in Idaho.

The witness said many of the Colorado miners when in Denver made Pettibone's store their headquarters. He often made purchases for them and allowed them to leave bundles, etc., in his store. He met Orchard at the store, but did not remember ever to have seen Steve Adams there.

"Do you remember sending something to California in 1904?" asked Darrow.

STATE OBJECTS.
"Yes, sir," Pettibone was in the store opening his mail one day, and after reading one of the letters he said to me—

The State objected to what Pettibone said and was sustained.

The witness said he saw Pettibone open and read a letter. Later he went to the postoffice and registered a letter for him.

"What was put into the letter?"
"A union card and a Masonic charm."

"That's the last you saw of the letter?"
"Yes, sir."
"There was no cross-examination."

"Did you help or assist in any way in the manufacture of any bombs?"
"I did not."

"Did you ever make a bomb?"
"No, sir."

"Did you ever commit or plan to commit any act of violence with Harry Orchard?"
"In that district?" inquired the witness.

"Yes."
"No, sir."

"Did you ever enter into any agreement or did you ever plan to commit an act of violence anywhere?"
"No, sir."

Barnes said that the day of the Independence depot explosion, June 6, 1904, he was attending the Democratic national convention in St. Louis.

LIVED AT DEPOT.
On cross-examination Barnes was asked to draw a rough sketch of the Independence depot and the location of the place where he lived, where Orchard lived and where Bill Easterly, Steve Adams and Bill Alkman lived. All were within a short distance of the depot.

On re-direct examination Barnes said directly the Independence depot and the location of the place where he lived, where Orchard lived and where Bill Easterly, Steve Adams and Bill Alkman lived. All were within a short distance of the depot.

Wolff said he first went to work for Pettibone in 1895 and remained a year. He again entered Pettibone's employ in 1898 and remained in the store until the business was wound up, May 1, 1906, following Pettibone's arrest and incarceration in Idaho.

The witness said many of the Colorado miners when in Denver made Pettibone's store their headquarters. He often made purchases for them and allowed them to leave bundles, etc., in his store. He met Orchard at the store, but did not remember ever to have seen Steve Adams there.

"Do you remember sending something to California in 1904?" asked Darrow.

STATE OBJECTS.
"Yes, sir," Pettibone was in the store opening his mail one day, and after reading one of the letters he said to me—

The State objected to what Pettibone said and was sustained.

The witness said he saw Pettibone open and read a letter. Later he went to the postoffice and registered a letter for him.

"What was put into the letter?"
"A union card and a Masonic charm."

"That's the last you saw of the letter?"
"Yes, sir."
"There was no cross-examination."
The defense claims Harry Orchard asked Pettibone to keep his union card, Masonic charm and some money for him when he started west in 1904 following the deportations from Cripple Creek.

TALKED TOO MUCH.
Archie Lester Harper, a young man just admitted to the bar in Denver, told of being arrested in Victor, Col., the day following the Independence depot explosion.

DENIES ORCHARD'S TALE.
Owen Barnes was the next witness. Barnes was implicated by Orchard in the manufacture of certain bombs. Barnes lost both of his feet while mining. He has been a member of the Western Federation of Miners for many years. In 1904 Barnes lived in a cabin near the Independence depot. Orchard only went there once.

"Did you have any conversation with him as to the manufacture of dynamite bombs?" asked Darrow.
"No, sir."

"Did you help or assist in any way in the manufacture of any bombs?"
"I did not."

"Did you ever make a bomb?"
"No, sir."

"Did you ever commit or plan to commit any act of violence with Harry Orchard?"
"In that district?" inquired the witness.

"Yes."
"No, sir."

The popular and charming visitor will be a favorite guest at many of the midsummer events and a number of informal affairs will be given by the closer friends of Mrs. Metcalf and her sisters, the Misses Nicholson.

WIFE IS HELD FOR $42 DEBT

Worried Husband Rushes Into Police Station—Gives Order on Employer.

TACOMA, July 5.—A man named Joe Gould dashed into police headquarters Wednesday night and said that Dr. Warren Brown was holding his wife at St. Joseph's Hospital and refused to let her out until he had paid $42. The man was advised to pay the money and was told that the police could do nothing for him.

Inquiry of Dr. Brown today revealed the fact that the man had brought his wife from Mukilteo for treatment about a week ago, and that the bill at the hospital, including ward charges and medical services amounted to $42.25. When the woman was ready to be discharged the man refused to pay the money. He is a logger and is getting $5 a day.

Dr. Brown said he saw no reason why the case should be treated for charity and advised the sisters at the hospital to hold the woman for a day or two. Later the man paid $10 on the account and gave an order on the mill where he is employed for the balance and the woman was discharged.

AS AN ENTERTAINER THIS CITY EXCITES ADMIRATION

Splendid Celebration of Yesterday Disperses Provincial Prejudice Held Heretofore in Any Other City.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Unbounded admiration for the manner in which Oakland entertained on the Fourth of July is heard on every side in San Francisco today. The thousands who crossed the bay "because they had nothing else to do," were overwhelmed by the reception they met with.

As the result of yesterday's efforts Oakland has added immeasurably to its reputation around the bay as a most generous and perfect entertainer. The people who did not go to Oakland yesterday are learning from their friends that they missed the greatest Fourth of July celebration ever held on the Pacific Coast.

The San Francisco provincialism which has insisted on regarding Oakland as a quiet suburb is entirely relegated to the past by the extravagant praise of her that is today heard on every side.

In the future Oakland will have only to announce a public celebration to gain the immediate hearing and interest of everyone in San Francisco, as well as all of the bay counties.

ENGLAND FACES UPRISING AMONG INDIAN SUBJECTS

Aristocratic Natives Join Coolies Against Europeans and Military Organizations Are Being Formed.

LONDON, July 5.—Despatches from India report that the disaffection among the natives is rapidly increasing. According to a correspondent who has made several tours of Bengal, revolt is being preached in many provinces and the natives are being trained to fight. He declares that the seriousness of the situation is hardly realized by the Europeans in India or at home.

Formerly the discontent was confined to a few agitators, but now it has spread among the aristocracy and land-holders as well as among the peasants and coolies. An organization known as National Volunteers has branches in nearly every town and village and tales of lawlessness and oppression by these volunteers come from every district. The rural police are weak, the correspondent states, and the people are gradually losing respect for order and authority. An alarming feature of the situation, it is stated, is the growing number of assaults on Europeans.

Another correspondent at Simla reports that sedition is extending into the central provinces.

SEVEN ON FOUNDERED TUG ARE DROWNED
HAMBURG, July 5.—Advices received here state that the tug Sao Bento, built in Hamburg for the Hamburg-South American Steamship company's Amazon service, foundered in the Bay of Biscay while in tow for Brazil. The captain and six men aboard the tug were drowned.

The "PACKARD" is something different. It has not followed precedents. It has created them. It has shown shoe wearers the highest types of foot gear. It did that twenty-five years ago. Today it is twenty-five years stronger.

OFFICIALS GATHER AT ROOSEVELT BOARD

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 5.—Rear-Admiral W. H. Brownson, chief of the Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department, and officials of the Postoffice and Interior Departments and of the army, were guests of President Roosevelt at luncheon today. Besides the Admiral, there were present Frank Hitchcock, First Assistant Postmaster-General; George V. Woodruff, Acting Secretary of the Interior, and Brigadier-General James B. Aleshire, the newly appointed Quartermaster-General.

GIVES RIGHT OF WAY TO PLAYFUL BROWN BEARS

If Yosemite Campers Find Old Bruin
Juggling Provisions He Must Not Be Disturbed, Says Major Benson.

SPECIAL TO THE TRIBUNE.

YOSEMITE, July 5.—The playful brown bear has been given the right of way over campers by the United States army authorities, on guard here, and Major Benson, in command, has issued a general invitation to all bear to make their headquarters in the valley. George Mitchell of Santa Clara, who is camping here with his family, called on Major Benson and the United States Cavalry to remove a bear from his camp, but Benson declined. Mitchell, his wife and daughters were returning to their camp from a day's trip, when on approaching the open space that surrounded their tents, their horses suddenly whined and bawled. Mitchell drew his up, but three ridden by his wife and daughters ran for some distance before they could be stopped. A huge brown bear making way with the Mitchell camp supplies was the cause of the run-aways.

Mitchell tried to shoo the bear away, but he was evidently quite a home body and declined to leave. Major Benson was appealed to, and he hurried to the scene closely guarded by a troop of cavalrymen.

BEARS FEEL AT HOME.
When the Major reached the scene the bear was juggling with the "air-dribble" from the Mitchell larder, pausing now and then to gaze wistfully at "Selected California Yellow Crawford Peaches" on the blue label thereof. Benson said he wanted to make the valley as pleasant as possible for the wild animals, so he ordered no one to molest the bear. An orderly was dispatched for a camera, while Benson entertained the bear by calling him pet names.

Mitchell also called the bear names—mostly under his breath, for there were women present, since the cavalrymen were there to protect them. Mitchell was wondering just where his next meal was coming from if the valley continued longer to be pleasant for wild animals.

Not finding the canned goods very satisfactory, the bear turned his attention to "bacons" and potatoes. He had about eaten his fill when he suddenly gave a snort of fright and fled for the snow hills. Many men who were present declared it was the unexpected arrival of a group of Fresno school ma'ams that caused the bear to shake camp life for a season. In the forest, but, however that may be, the bear was gone before the camera arrived. The affair say Benson turned to them and said: "That is just what I want. All animals should feel at home here. Before I took possession of the valley bear were trapped and driven away upon first appearance, but I want to get as many as possible to come in. If I catch anyone molesting a bear I would have him thrown out of the valley."

TWO THOUSAND ACRES IN PEACH ORCHARD

WENATCHEE, Wash., July 5.—The first twenty acres of what promises to be the largest peach orchard in the world have just been planted at Chelan Falls, a steamboat landing on the Columbia, about thirty miles above Wenatchee. The orchard when all planted will contain 2,000 acres of peach trees. Besides the trees that were set out, one ton of peach seeds were planted.

The planting and care of the large orchard are in charge of A. Van Holderbeke, who is associated with L. McLean in the enterprise. Mr. McLean, who is now a Spokane capitalist and promoter, homesteaded 160 acres of the land several years ago.

Referring to the undertaking, Mr. Van Holderbeke said: "We expect to begin laying the pipe next week, which will carry water to the trees already planted. This will be six inches in diameter and a mile and a half long. The orchard will be irrigated by water from springs situated above the land."

"The side hills are to be set out in grapes. There will be 500 acres of this fruit. Terraces will be made and the grapes will be set along the terraces."

MADE HIM RICH.

"How ridiculous it is," remarked the wealthy tailor, "to say that clothes don't make the man."

"Think so?" queried his friend.

"Why, of course; they've made me."

Be Sure to Get What You Ask For.

HERE is a Reason—
Why the Good People of America buy Cascarets as Fast as the Clock Ticks.
Every second some one, somewhere, is buying a little Ten-Cent Box of Cascarets. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6—60 times to the Minute, 60 Minutes to the Hour, 3600 Boxes an Hour, 86,400 Boxes a Day of Ten Hours, 1,080,000 Boxes a Month, and then some. Think of it—220,000 People take a Cascaret tablet each day. Millions use Cascarets when necessary.

The Judgment of Millions of Bright Americans is Infalible. They have been buying and taking Cascarets at that rate for over Six years.

Over Five Millions of Dollars have been spent to make the merits of Cascarets known, and every cent of it would be lost, did not sound merit claim and hold the constant, continued friendship, Patronage and Endorsement of well-pleased people year after year.

There is also a Reason—
Why there are Parasites who attach themselves to the Healthy Body of Cascarets' success—Imitators, Counterfeits, Substitutes.

They are Trade Thieves who would rob Cascarets of the "Good Will" of the people, and sneak unearned profits, earned and paid for by Cascarets.

A Dishonest Purpose means a Dishonest Product and a Disregard of the Purchaser's Health or Welfare.

Beware of the Slick Salesman and his ancient "Just as Good" story that common sense refutes.

Cascarets are made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and put up in metal box with the "long-tailed C" on the cover.

OAKLAND WOMAN ISSUES CRITICISM

Editor TRIBUNE: May I have the floor a few moments? I've really something to say. I was born and reared in Oakland and I love the place, so this criticism is but a kindly one.

What was the matter with our Fourth of July parade? Pretty nice, wasn't it? But where, in the name of Oakland, were our merchants and their patriotism? Our Chinese friends and their great display put us to shame. Shades of our Revolutionary grandfathers, spare us!

How splendid it would have been if each merchant in our fair and prosperous city had exerted himself to decorate even just one of his delivery wagons and horses with red, white and blue flags and bunting and put it in line? How our hearts would have swelled with pride at the sight! Red, white and blue; red, white and blue; this of it. Those with a little more time and patriotism could have enlarged upon the idea and sent all of their wagons or an occasional attractive float.

We might have had a few wagon loads of our own children singing "Three cheers for the red, white and blue."

Bless those little heathens, how they did sing! And I heard some unkind criticisms, too. And who are we to criticize? But a short time in history and this was a foreign shore to us, too. I always did think the Chinese could teach us a few things, and they certainly did show us how to make a parade.

But it is never too late to mend. We will have another chance in less than a year.

THE TRIBUNE, through its columns, did a lot of encouraging and inspiring this year, with pretty good results, with the one exception. May it never grow discouraged. And may our own Oakland "live long and prosper!"

And may we be patriotic!

GOOD JUDGMENT MAY RETAIN RELATIONS

NEWPORT, R. I., July 5.—In discussing the American-Japanese situation, the Right Rev. Sydney C. Partridge, missionary bishop to Kioto, Japan, said today:

"I do not believe the good judgment of either nation would allow a matter of simply local irritation to assume the proportions of an international question and strain to any severe point of tension our friendly relations."

"In spite of all ideas and reports to the contrary, there has been no evidence in Japan itself of objectionable national arrogance and pride, owing to the victory over Russia. On the contrary, it is awful cost and its sacrifice of life has made them sober, thoughtful and humble to a degree which was remarkable. The country has opened itself as never before to foreigners of every name, and the people have outdone themselves in international personal courtesies. We opened the door of Japan; they have always been her best and earnest friends; she knows she cannot, dare not, will not allow that friendship to be broken."

Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the proven remedy. Guaranteed by Osgood Bros., druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

AUSTRALIAN QUINCE CANNED IN A ROUND

TOMMY BURNS SLAMS AN TIPODEAN TO CANVAS IN 2 MINUTES

RINGSIDE SCENES, SNAPPED ESPECIALLY FOR TRIBUNE BY STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER.

JOE THOMAS CATCHES A TARTAR IN KID KETCHELL

Class and Coolness of the Welterweight Champion Saves Him From Defeat in Marysville.

Kid Ketchell of Montana put up a whirlwind fight against Joe Thomas at Marysville yesterday, and for a while it looked as though a new welterweight champion would be proclaimed when the round ended. In the eleventh round, as the fighters were breaking away from a clinch, Ketchell caught Thomas off his guard, and, as the champion was stepping carefully away, slipped a stinging punch squarely on the tip of his jaw. Thomas went down with a crash, and rolled over through the ropes. He got to his feet immediately, but came back to the ring extremely groggy. By standing and hanging on he managed to last the round out, despite Ketchell's desperate attempts to land a knockout blow. The class and coolness of the champion saved him from what seemed almost certain defeat at this stage.

Again in the fourteenth round, when the millinery was progressing furiously, the Montana fighter landed telling blows and Thomas appeared to be in distress. The champion gained strength after that, though, and Ketchell, in his efforts to land a finishing blow, seemed to have fought himself out. The last round was in Thomas' favor. He forced the fighting at a fast clip and had his opponent running around the ring to avoid punishment at the end.

Timekeeper Loehne and Naughton fought a little bout of their own while the men were making it in the ring. The bell was left to itself.

It was in the eleventh round, when things looked worst for Thomas, that John Naughton of Sacramento reached over and pulled the bell claiming that the official timekeeper was watching the fight instead of his watch, and Referee Eddie Smith sent the men to their corners. The timekeeper claimed that the bell had been determined to end the struggle as soon as possible. Thomas contented himself with boxing and staling up his opponent and appeared to have all the class. He looked as though he would be returned an easy winner. Ketchell, however, proved stronger than he expected, and his fast rushes seemed to bewilder Thomas. In the first round the Montana man landed several telling blows.

The crowd was with Ketchell to a man and cheered for him at every possible opportunity. Up to the sixth round Ketchell showed up exceptionally well, but began to tire and slow down considerably. At the beginning of the sixth Thomas left his corner with a rush and seemed determined to end the struggle with a clinch. He looked as though he would be returned an easy winner. Ketchell, however, proved stronger than he expected, and his fast rushes seemed to bewilder Thomas. In the first round the Montana man landed several telling blows.

THOMAS IS STAGGERED. Thomas landed more punches than opponent and seemed to have the fight in hand when, in the eleventh round, as the men were pulling away from the clinch, the Montana boy shot a punch over the champion's guard as he was stepping away in a careless manner and landed squarely on the point of the jaw. Thomas was sent sprawling to the ropes and, if it had not been for the ringside spectators, would have gone off the platform. He was helped back to the ring not taking advantage of the count.

As soon as Thomas was on his feet the Kid rushed him viciously, but Thomas stalled and managed to last out the remaining two minutes of the round. For the next two rounds Thomas stalled, gathering strength. Ketchell, in his attempt to finish his man, fought himself out and in the fourteenth round the fight was nip and tuck, both men fighting with determination in an attempt to win.

The last two rounds were all Thomas'. He fought fast all the time and had Ketchell running backwards. At the close of the final round Referee Eddie Smith raised the arms of both men in token of a draw. After the fight the referee said: "The contest was one of, if not the best welterweight contests ever seen on the coast. The champion was saved from defeat by his class alone and in my opinion a draw was the only decision that could be given and been fair to both boys."

Cockey O'Brien Claims New Title

Cockey O'Brien, who has a lunch-counter record longer than a Chinese pipe dream, authorities THE TRIBUNE to challenge Bill Squires on his behalf.

Cockey declares that he will fight the Antipodean champion, a bet of a basket of frankfurters against a box of lemons.

Cockey wants the fight to take place under the Marquis of Goosberry rules, winner take both lemons and frankfurters.

AUSTRALIAN CHAMPION PROVES THE TAMEST QUINCE THAT EVER FOUGHT FOR TITLE OF CHAMPION

Burns Lulls Him to Rest in One Round.

Antipodean Shows No More Science Than a Lady Washerwoman.

By T. P. MAGILLIGAN.

"My Gawd!" "Wasn't it awful?" "Oh, Clarice, Clarice, Clarice! Hurry, dear, get the smelling salts! And, say, dearie, bar the door. The police might come in. I ain't dippy, according to my own testimony, but how, oh, Bo! how could I ever convince a jury?"

Say, if they ever got any one to rub my nut or examine my bean, I think they would find one immense bump of foolishness.

And let me tell you, I'm tickled most to death, 'cause the coppers ain't got me and having me examined on a question of sanity.

And say, let me tell you, Bo, I'm only one of about nine thousand who'd have a tough time convincing a jury that they've got a right to think for themselves, and do it out loud without a guardian, and Doctor Dippy chaperoning them.

Bo! (oh, the weeps!) I want to see the great Australian QUINCE, Bill Squires, reputed champion of all Australia, battle with Tommy Burns.

A BATTLE? Pardon me, Gaston, I said BATTLE. Oh, ye gods! the mockery of words!

Mr. Squires is the most lamblike and ladylike QUINCE that ever strolled around masquerading as a fighter.

He lasted just TWO MINUTES AND TEN SECONDS with Tommy Burns.

The fight was like the annals of the poor, short and sweet.

Mr. Squires doesn't know his left hand from his right foot on a bet and next time they send any Quince from foreign shores, they'll have to put the mitts on with Cockey O'Brien or Ah Wing before they'll be able to haul me out to see one of them.

I couldn't define the word MUTT, but if you want to get a perspective of one just take a slant at a picture of Bill Squires.

P. MAGILLIGAN.

When I was leaving the ring a friend of mine approached me and said, "Well, what do you think of Mr. Hunka?"

"Mr. Hunka? That's the measure of Mr. Squires fore and aft and labored and starboard."

When it comes to colossal jokes Squires is fit.

Jack Munro, Con Coughlin, The Prussian Giant, Ed Dunkhorst and Fessie Fewdiths are all warriors compared to Mr. Squires.

Squires may be, as Mr. Jordan alleges, an Australian diamond in the rough, but it didn't take Mr. Burns of Hanover, Canada, long to cut him. No lapidary ever did a job quicker or hand-somer. Bill must be a sort of Swiss cheese diamond.

One thing Mr. Squires can do better than anybody living is to be the least bit of a fool.

He didn't miss one that Mr. Burns carelessly slung at him.

QUICK ACTION. The men were fighting about ten seconds.

Zip! Burns' right fist crossed over to Squires' temple.

Squires went to the canvass as though he fell out from the top of the Call building.

He fell so hard that he rebounded to a standing posture like a rubber ball. Then he made a few cat-like claws at Burns.

Tommy was measuring him like a hungry cat observing a delicate mouse. Just a little later Tommy slipped another over. Mr. Squires went to the canvass as though he slipped from the top of the Call building.

FOUL! FOUL! Squires' seconds claimed a foul. They swore that Burns hit Squires with a stuffed club, but Jeff couldn't see it, and disallowed the claim of foul.

Fans Treated to a Rare Frost.

Those Who Paid the Money to See Championship Fight Were Sore.

bunch of language you ever heard. Wonder if Mr. Burns was sincere, or just chattering Squires' words.

BIG CROWD PRESENT. The crowd that attended the fight was approximated at 9000.

Long before the preliminary rounds were gathered at the arena, and they began filing through the turnstiles as soon as they were opened.

Quite a large bunch were on hand from Oakland to see the big Australian quince canned.

Way up on a hill was a good sprinkling of fans.

The seats up there were complimentary and those who got the birdseye view of the battle were the only ones who got a run for their money.

Timekeeper George Harding was the first man to enter the ring. Billy Jordan tagged along on his heels, sorewood up his voice and introduced Mr. Harding as the greatest timekeeper on earth.

Then the battalion of photographers squeezed their way between the ropes and there was a clicking and snapping of shutters that reminded one of a border skirmish.

While the photographers were clicking and snapping their shutters a noise broke forth from the western end of the arena. It grew in volume, and in a moment the cry of "HERE COMES SQUIRES. Here comes Squires" broke from thousands of throats.

A tall figure, clad in a soft tan-colored hat, bronzed and brown, pushed his way to the ring.

When Squires tipped himself over the ropes he was cheered lustily.

He stripped and displayed a wealth of muscles that drew admiring "awrs" from the thousands present.

Squires wore green plush knickerbockers, and his skin had the sun-browned tint of a Kanaka.

He was accompanied by Tim McGrath and the mysterious Mr. Russell. Something green furled and twirled from the hands of McGrath. No one could tell just what it was for a moment, but Tim didn't leave the crowd long in doubt.

WEARING OF THE GREEN. With all the patriotism of a Tipperary man, McGrath swung the green over his head and it turned out to be a miniature Irish flag, with "Erin Go Bragh" emblazoned on it.

Squires was in the ring only a moment or two when the cry of "Burns! Burns!" broke from the multitude and Burns entered the ring.

He was clad in a long, flowing, gray bath robe, and accompanying him were Mark Shaughnessy, Jimmy Burns and Professor Lewis.

BURNS WELL, THANK YOU. When Burns stripped for action no one could notice that he was in any

SAN MATEO POSSESSES THE ONLY HAPPY FAN IN STATE

"We saw one happy man after the fight. Only one. And we counted 'em."

He was Francois Corbett (pronounced Corbay) of San Mateo, California.

Just as we were dejectedly meandering looking for a conveyance back to civilization we beheld an automobile, sweating and puffing its way towards the arena.

Thinking it might be a doctor called to examine Mr. Squires to see that poor Boshier was not fatally injured we paused.

Seated in the tonneau, smoking a big, fat and black cigar was a very excited gentleman.

"What's up?" he yelled. "Nothing particularly wrong," he was informed. "Will I be late for the fight?" was the next one the gent behind the cigar asked.

"Quit your kiddin'," said some fan. "Go and look at a United States history and you'll find out that the Revolutionary War is over."

Mr. Corbay was then informed of the result of the fight. Frank had taken a machine from San Mateo, but the carburettor blew out, and he was stalled for an hour at Uncle Tom's Cabin.

When Mr. Corbay found out that he was about the only fight-loving fan in the whole county of San Mateo who wasn't elipped a quince he fell into Mr. Farley's place and opened up a few bottles of Moet & Chandon's Soothing Syrup.

Time and again philosophers, and less wise persons, have sought the Happy Man.

Anyone who wants to put their peepers on such a one had better take a little ride to San Mateo and take a quiet little slant at Mr. Francois Corbett.

Immediate need of a doctor. His eye was clear and glittering and his skin had the tone and tint of a well-smoked cigar.

The pair had hardly taken their corners when the behemoth form of Jeffries hurried itself through the ropes.

Jeff's face was swollen to twice its natural size and gave to the fans the impression that Jeff weighed a ton.

The big fellow explained that he was suffering from an ulcerated tooth. Squires was as nervous as the girl grad, who is about to assault an auditor, once with "Curfew Shall Not Peel Tonight."

He bit and compressed his lips until they almost bled.

SQUIRES NERVOUS. Squires first took the southeast corner of the ring and then he switched to the southeast corner.

He stole furtive glances at Burns from his corner, and it did not require an X-ray eye to see Bill's dauber trying to knock his teeth out.

Mary Shaughnessy was the first to get help to Squires' nervous condition and he told Burns about it.

SHAUGHNESSY HEP. "That guy'll drop dead before he reaches the center of the ring," said Mark. "We're better send for the health department and have his corner disinfected or there'll be bubonic plague around here."

Mark's guess was close to the truth, as subsequent events proved. Billy Jordan then called the men to the center of the ring.

Jeffries was then introduced as the champion of the world and MARS. W. W. Naughton reached over the ropes and handed to Jeffries a certified check for ten thousand dollars, the side bet between Burns and Squires on the outcome of the battle.

The new arena at Colma is certainly the best appointed in America. One gets a beautiful view of a contest from every part of the entire arena, and Corbett is to be congratulated on his skill as a designer of arenas, at least, if not a very clever architect of fights.

OLLIE SNEDIGER DISPLAYS FINE FORM IN THE GAMES

Crack Athlete Takes Four Firsts and Two Seconds at the Webster Club's Field Day.

Athletic stars yesterday valiantly and gallantly strained powerful muscles and pitted the speed of well-trained legs against the prowess of old and like the ancient gladiators, the rewards of victory were laurel wreaths and the unbounded enthusiastic applause of spectators who made of the victors heroes of whom they will think for many days. The scene was laid in the stadium of Golden Gate Park, in San Francisco, and made a carnival of sports that has seldom been rivaled, all things considered. And the Webster Athletic Club makes the place the greatest of all the wearers of spikes the figure of Ollie Snediger, to whom belongs all the honor due a champion athlete. Four firsts and two seconds made up his remarkable record for the day and his nearest rival was Cheek, who tallied two firsts and was second three times. There was another youth among the contestants who appeared to advantage and was hailed as a star of the future of whom all rivals will do well to feel worthy of most serious consideration. He is a lad named Bronley, a student at Lick High School. He won the half mile for high school boys with a dash and brilliancy that mark him a born master of the cinder path and finished third in three events where more seasoned and stronger men were unplaced.

OAKLAND TEAM MAULS SEALS TWICE ON FOURTH

Van Haltren's Men Take Morning Contest Six to Three and Heilmuller Wins Afternoon Game.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—The Oakland ball team put up a game of ball yesterday morning and afternoon that could be described in epicurean parlance as the choicest tidbit dished up in a long time. What they did to the Seals in the morning they accentuated in the afternoon.

When the teams lined up for the afternoon session here Henley and Hogan were on the firing line and Dashwood revolved for Oakland. They began business from the jump with two tallies in the first. Smith went to first on Hildebrand's miff of an easy fly and was advanced to third on Van's single. Heilmuller singled to left and Smith tripped home. Van and Helms put over a double steal and the former came home on Hogan's fly.

The next morning was done in the sixth, but there were sensational outs and both Henley and Hogan were steady and strong. Shaughnessy singled in the sixth, stole second, Walker walked and when Moriarty's safety came on Shaughnessy scored because Dashwood dropped the ball. Irwin brought Wheeler back with a hard drive to center and Moriarty registered his tally on a wild pitch by Hogan. Dashwood made a bad throw to second and Irwin brought Wheeler home by a hard drive to center in the seventh.

When two men were out in the eighth Henley bled a hot one to the right field fence and Hogan started him home with a two-bagger. Oakland needed three runs to win in the ninth. Helms was put in, Higbee and Dave Jones of Henley's curves into right field, reaching first safely. "Brick" singled and Dashwood scored Henley with a single into left field. After Smith flew out to Irwin Henley promenade Van, filling the bases. It was up to Helms—he did the proper "hero" stunt and the search is still in progress for the ball. The last was somewhere near Market and Valencia streets.

Preliminary Is Lifeless Draw

The preliminary battle at Colma yesterday between Johnny Edwards and Johnny Murphy went ten rounds to a draw, and was about the only thing in the way of fighting that the crowd had a chance to watch. Referee Hanlon's decision was a popular one, although strictly on points Edwards had a shade over his opponent. The articles called for the men's weight in at 128 pounds at 10 o'clock in the morning and the training necessary to get Murphy down to the limit was unquestionably had for him. He lacked everything that has characterized his previous fights. Edwards announced at the end of the fight that he had broken his hand in the sixth round and had to stop up to save himself.

For the first six rounds Edwards did by far the most of the scoring. Murphy was wild and he judged his distance badly. He hurled himself at his opponent, only to find that he was hitting the air. For three rounds he boxed in his stocking feet. Through some mismanagement on the part of his seconds, his shoes did not arrive until the affair was well under way, and they were fitted on in a hurry between rounds.

Dreamland Has Fine Card Tonight

At Dreamland Pavilion tonight the Columbia club will give six four-round boxing contests between some of the best fighters in the short-bout class. The main event will bring together Kyle Whitney, the colored welterweight, and Dick Hart of Chicago. The semi-main event will be fought by Charlie Kelly, the featherweight who earned a draw with Johnny Murphy last week, and Joe Leahy, the champion member of the California club. The special event is between heavyweights, George Turner, champion of the United States navy, will box Belling Johnson, the local Swede boxer. The three preliminaries are: Joe Kane vs. Dave Lynch, 122 pounds; Willie Ritchie vs. Jim Davis of Vallejo, 115 pounds; and Martin Lawler vs. Kid Sullivan, 140 pounds. Tom Barry will referee. There will be no judges.

PORTLAND TOPPLES THE ANGEL TEAM IN TWO GAMES

McCredie's Men in Gingerly Form Give to the Leaders a Rather Rude Setback.

LOS ANGELES, July 5.—Yesterday's morning game was a farce and went to McCredie and his hirelings by 8 to 2. Nagle and Bergman are both on the sick list, so Dillon tried out a couple of amateurs. A local sandlotter, was the first victim. He stayed off the slaughter until the seventh inning, when three runs were put across by the Beavers. Three more tallies were made by the visitors in the eighth. Traeger, brother of Bill Traeger of Stanford, had been put in to pitch for Los Angeles at this period. He was even easier than Gamble had been. Califf singled to left. Bassey was an easy out. Mott was belted to the slats by the young pitcher and Schimpff was forced out at the plate when Casey bunted. McCredie came along with a three-bagger and cleared the bases. The Beavers made it two in the same day by defeating the Angels in the afternoon game by 3 to 2. It was a pitchers' battle, five hits each being charged against the deliveries of Groom and Carnes.

Jim Jeffries Had The Softest Job

BY JAMES J. JEFFRIES.
In this fight there was nothing to referee. I am glad that the best man won, though personally I am the loser. If the Seals had meant $100,000 to me, I would have gone into the ring and would have defended the title. As long as I am able to fight, Burns can keep in this country. Burns can be defeated by some foreigner. That's the only chance to get me back in the ring.

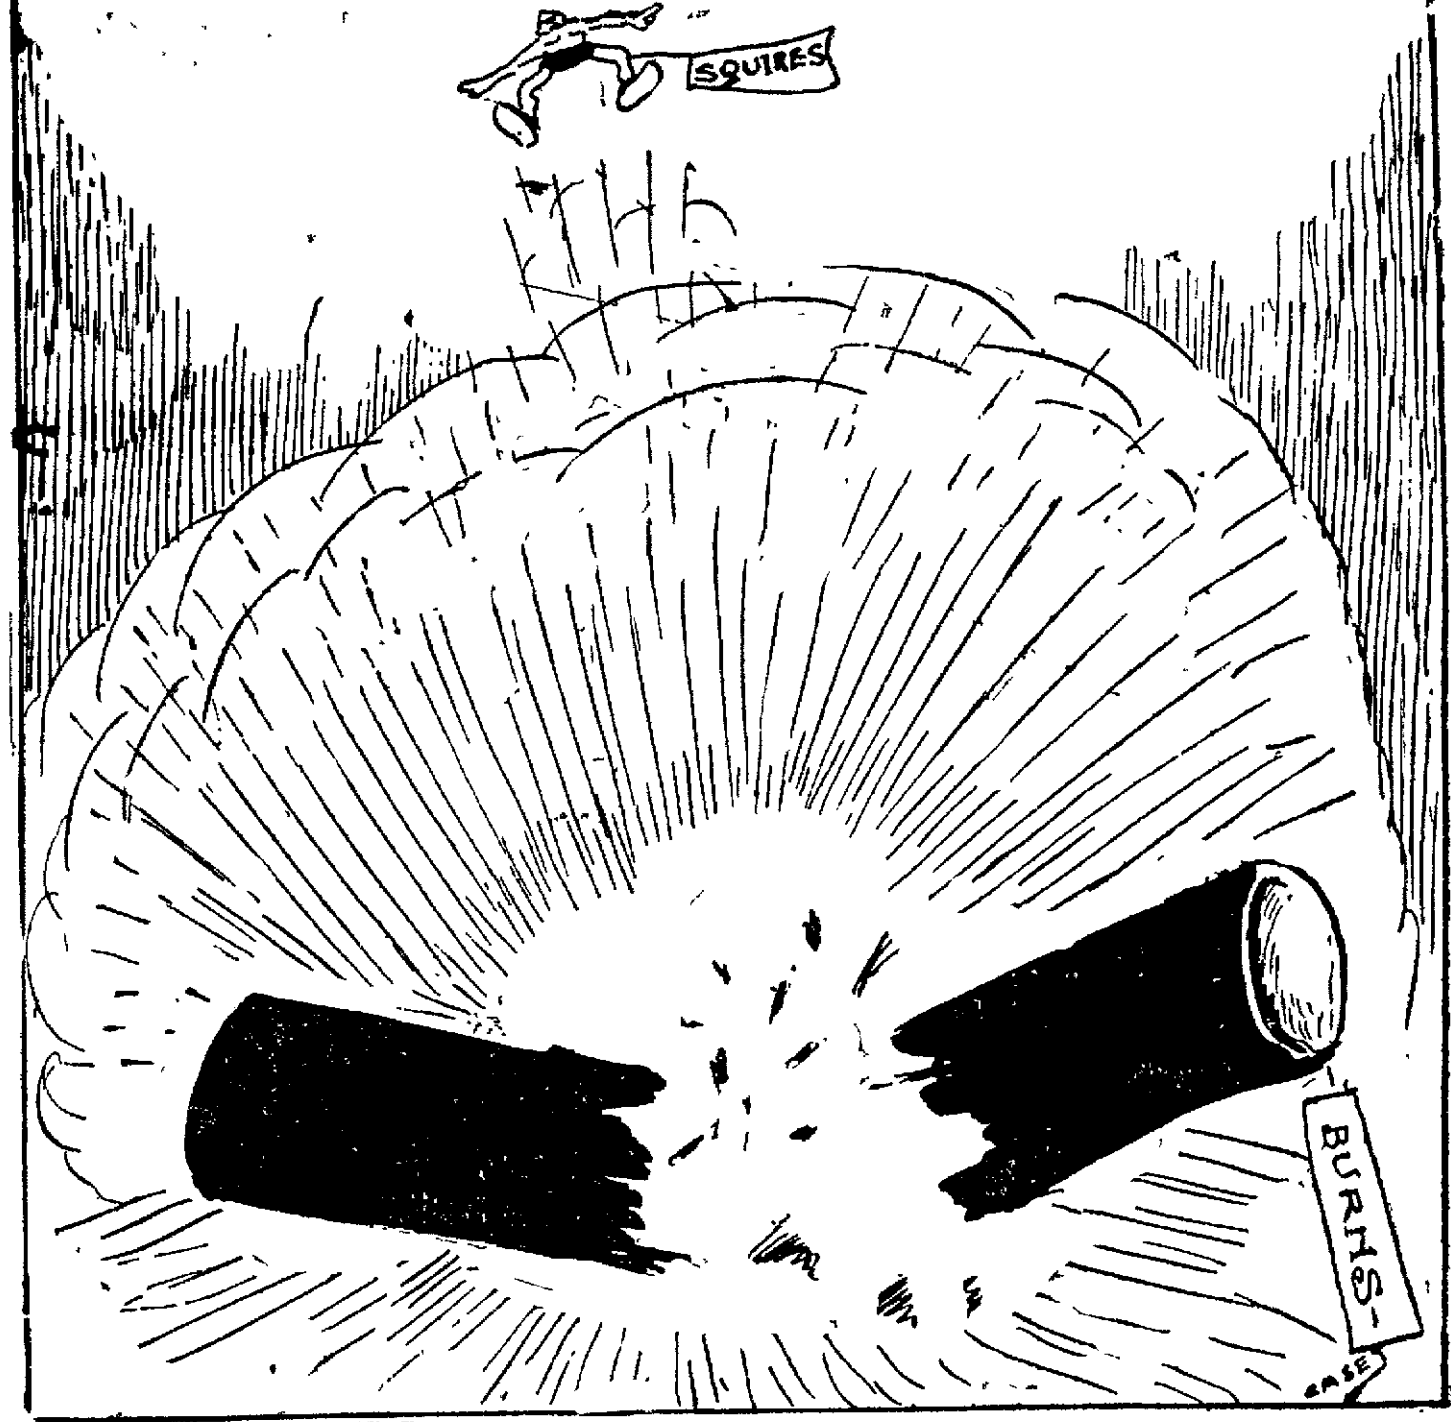

Unk Russell Fails to Fight

VALLEJO, July 5.—Unk Russell, of Philadelphia, refused to meet George Herbert of Crockett before the Palm Athletic Club yesterday afternoon, although he is understood to have a millionaire manager. He said the size of the house did not justify his appearance in the ring. The preliminary was a ten-round go between Jack Shields, of Sacramento, and was a hot and fast contest, the Sacramento boy being given the decision.

Flanagan Sets a New Record

NEW YORK, July 5.—John Flanagan broke the world's sixteen-pound hammer record from a nine-foot circle at the Irish Counties Athletic A. A. U. games yesterday. He threw the hammer 172 feet.

BANG!!!

TURF GOSSIP

Nothing in the way of features is offered race-lovers today. Interesting and well-balanced fields will line up at the different tracks and good sport is promised. Plenty of good betting propositions and some rattling close finishes will furnish the excitement.

Douglas Park is to be the permanent home of the Kentucky State Fair. Members of the State Board of Agriculture at a meeting the other day voted to buy the property for $375,000, the price agreed upon at a conference of the committee from the fair association and Louis A. Cella, the principal owner of the plant. The fair races will be held at Churchill Downs.

Captain J. H. Greer has declined a challenge from Richard Croker, who offered to match Orby against Sluey Gallion for a race at any distance from five furlongs to three miles.

Richard Croker is going to get a new trainer, and he wants one from this country. He wrote Jim Murphy of New York the past week for the names of three likely men. Murphy cabled back: "Durnell, Madden and Hyland." Croker evidently anticipated about what these subjects of the paddock would want for the season abroad, for he cabled back to Murphy "And J. Pierpont Morgan, too?"

This is to be the last year of the Farmer-Hendrie control at Fort Erie. Next year the track will be operated by the Niagara Jockey Club, the plant now being owned by Cella, Adler & Tittles, John Condon and J. Madigan. It is understood that in the fall there will be a meeting of representatives of the five tracks in Canada and Kentucky Park to arrange dates so that there will be no clashing.

Miss May Sutton Is Again Champion Driving Club Holds Matinee $25,000 House Sees the Fiasco

Three hundred men and women were present yesterday afternoon at Golden Gate Park when the Park Amateur Driving Club held its second meeting for trotters and pacers. There was but one disagreeable feature that threatened to mar the day, but it was fortunately smoothed over. In the heat of the fifth race Dr. B. Dalziel drove the owner's horse, behind Director B. Stock finished in the lead amid the plaudits of the admirers. The blue ribbon was bestowed upon Director B., and scores were congratulating the owner when Dr. Dalziel drove up to the judges' stand and made claim of foul.

"On the far stretch," he said, "this man pinched me and held so close to the rail that there was not four inches between the rail and his wheel. I asked him to stand off, but he would not, and I could not get through. I told him I would take off his wheel if he didn't give me room, but he held there."

"I drove a gentlemanly race, and there was always room for the doctor to get through, but my horse is too fast for him."

The crowd took sides with Mr. Stock and for a time a scene was threatened. Cheers greeted Mr. Stock's offer to drive the race over again, and this was accepted by Dr. Dalziel. But later the jockey withdrew his complaint and both men shook hands.

There were five races on the card, and the entries were all high class horses. The course was three-quarters of a mile and all the heats were hotly contested. Blue ribbons were given the winners of each race, and there was an amount of enthusiasm that makes for success of gentlemen's driving organizations.

Tommy Sullivan Throws Abe Attell

ST. LOUIS, July 5.—Abe Attell, king of the featherweights, and Tommy Sullivan, one of the country's best scrappers, met in a big sport carnival here yesterday. However, it wasn't with the padded gloves the pair clashed. The laws of Missouri do not allow prize fighting, so the great little boxers met in a catch-as-catch-can wrestling bout. Attell gained the first fall in easy fashion. Then Sullivan, with a shoulder to the mat. With it even up the pair battled, or rather wrestled, for some twelve minutes, Sullivan gaining of what he called a "positive cure" every once in a while.

W. Smedley, time, 2:03 1-2. Second heat—Won by W. Smedley; second, Director B., third, Lady Smedley; time, 2:06. Third heat—Won by Director B., second, Martha; time, 2:04.

Fred Weeks Wins From Grover Hayes

CRIPPLE CREEK, July 5.—The scheduled twenty-round bout between Freddie Weeks and Grover Hayes came to an abrupt end in the middle of the third round, when Weeks landed a left, right and left hook, three powerful short-arm jabs to the jaw in rapid succession, knocking Hayes down and out.

HURLED FROM MOTOR CYCLE

Los Angeles Resident Seriously Injured While Engaged in Endurance Race.

C. F. Dunham, a young business man of Los Angeles, is in a serious condition as a result of an accident yesterday. At the foot of a steep hill near Arroyo Grande his motorcycle struck a boulder, and Dunham was hurled high in the air before he fell to the earth. He had not regained consciousness up to last night. The accident cast sixteen fellow-riders into deep gloom and robbed them of much of their interest in a thousand-mile endurance race in which they started from Los Angeles. The party reached the hill three miles south of Arroyo Grande on Wednesday morning. Dunham was in the lead and rode fast. At the bottom of the hill his machine struck the boulder, where both forks of the machine snapped off. He was hurled into the air and fell into the brush. He was apparently lifeless when he was reached by L. A. Hoskins, a Los Angeles newspaperman.

LEFT AT ARROYO GRANDE.
The unfortunate rider was carried in a wagon to Arroyo Grande, where he was given medical attention. His companions remained with him for seven hours, and then left to continue their trip.

Of the twenty-four motorists who started on the long run but sixteen reached Oakland last night, completing half of the round trip they mapped out between the two cities. Four are still on the road and are expected today or tomorrow and four gave up the contest.

The riders now at Oakland are C. A. Riden, J. H. Schaefer, E. C. Kehl, C. E. Johnson, W. G. Collins, O. D. Stanton, J. F. Copper, J. Fink, C. W. Frink, H. E. Ganfield and A. Racker, who finished Wednesday evening at W. Hubell, L. A. Hoskins, A. T. Werner, F. Benkert and A. Avis, who came in yesterday.

While Mr. Rockefeller is on his way to Chicago, while he is here and while he is returning to his home he may not be molested or approached by process servers from State courts where his presence as a witness may be desired.

This is a rule which obtains even with the humblest and poorest witnesses summoned by the United States courts. Just as it protects the poorest, it will protect Mr. Rockefeller. Doubtless, too, Mr. Rockefeller will be guarded by federal secret service men at his temporary home in Chicago.
